

The deregulation thus far has cost us good news to biased and greedy businesses. These further deregulations will kill any of the information we might actually get, leaving us only with the 5 or so stories that the media will then be allowed to give us. We have a right to the news, it is not something that should be monopolized.